

MASSACHUSETTS PLOUGHMAN

William Buckminster, Editor.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 16, 1850.

"We have returned to our old office in Quincy Hall, where subscribers and friends will please find us ready to attend to them as usual. Our neighbors also, Ruggles, Nurse, Mason & Co., have moved back to the Rotunda."

CATTLE FAIR AT FRAMINGHAM.

The Committee of Arrangements, chosen on Friday last, have procured of Col. Wm Hastings the use of a field near his dwelling house where all who choose may bring their cattle for sale or exchange, free of expense, and an auctioneer will be provided for them, if they choose to sell at auction.

The Fair is to be held Tuesday next, Nov. 19th, to commence at ten o'clock A. M. The Committee is desirous that all who have pairs of horses for exhibition should bring them for exhibition.

No fund has been raised for premiums, but an individual member of the company has deposited twenty dollars to be distributed by the Committee of Arrangements among those fine farmers who may present on that day the handsomest and best pairs of oxen.

EXHIBITION OF FOWLS.

For three days the flats on the Common have been thronged with visitors, and Mr. Wright's enormous tent has sheltered a multitude of the admirers of the feathered tribe.

The visitors were of both sexes, and of all ages, from one to eighty years—and the birds were from all nations under the sun. Geese, Turkeys, Eagles and Pheasants were to be seen in various places under the tent, and as to what country were in his hands. It ends upon Mr. Dexters for an explanation of his conduct, and intimates that no virtual notification will be permitted in Mass.-hustus. The explanations of Mr. Dexter are looked for, and should he fail to make such as are satisfactory, he may anticipate a removal from office, and the appointment in his place of some one who recognizes the majesty of the law of the confederacy, and the necessity of preserving it in its full power.

"The Washington Republic indulges in some very significant language with regard to the conduct of Marshal Devens, who has positively denied that he had any secret documents in his hands."

UNITED STATE MARSHAL AT BOSTON.—The Washington Republic indulges in some very significant language with regard to the conduct of Marshal Devens, who has positively denied that he had any secret documents in his hands. It ends upon Mr. Dexters for an explanation of his conduct, and intimates that no virtual notification will be permitted in Mass.-hustus. The explanations of Mr. Dexter are looked for, and should he fail to make such as are satisfactory, he may anticipate a removal from office, and the appointment in his place of some one who recognizes the majesty of the law of the confederacy, and the necessity of preserving it in its full power.

BRIDGE AT ROUSE'S POINT.—The bill authorizing the Vermont and Canada Railroad to construct a bridge across Lake Champlain at Rouse's Point was passed, and engrossed in the Vermont Legislature, on Wednesday night. The bill was before being passed, however, introduced to authorize the Rutland road to go upon the Vermont and Canada, and avail itself of the advantages of the bridge. The New York Legislature is yet to decide the question of the bridge, on the part of the State of New York. [Transcript.]

ANOTHER BANK.—It is stated that a charter will be applied for at the next session of the Legislature for a bank to be styled the Faneuil Hall Bank. Some of the highest provision dealers in Faneuil Hall Market have engaged in the project, with a view of getting the bank located over the market, or in the immediate vicinity.

The capital is placed at $250,000, of which the sum of $150,000 has already been subscribed by persons doing business in the market.

The small sum of ninepence collected of male visitors proved sufficient to pay the principal part of the expense.

THE ELECTION.

"No one knows who will be Governor till after election." This is an old saw but is as true now as most of the aphorisms of modern days.

A great many votes have been given, and a vast many voters have shown that they acted without influence from any high powers who had no legal right to control them. A secret ballot will not be seriously called for at a future election, for instances of it are to be seen in every town where the market is in the hands of the people.

The present governor is not chosen by the people, and there appear to be but three members of Congress chosen—that is, a whig in Suffolk, and in the eighth and ninth districts where Mr. Mann and Mr. Fowler are chosen by the aid of Free Soilers and Democrats.

Whigs are elected for Senators in Suffolk, Hampshire, Barnstable, and in Nantucket and Dukes. But in Middlesex, Worcester, Norfolk, Plymouth, and Franklin the evolution parties have elected Senators, and probably in Essex also. Berkshire is close, and there is no choice in Hampden.

As to members of Congress there must be a plurality law passed in Massachusetts or we shall be unrepresented in that body.

LAWTON, Nov. 14th.—The Brig Chalmer's, belonging to the U. S. Brig Perry, were on the coast of Africa charged with being engaged in the slave trade, arrived here this morning in charge of Lieut. Shepard and the prize crew. It is thought some of her owners reside here.

THE PLANET VENUS.—The planet Venus may now be seen, in a clear afternoon, with the naked eye. It is distinctly visible as early as 2 o'clock, and increases in brilliancy till sunset. The crescent form of Venus is now plainly shown by the smallest telescope.

PATENTS issued from the Patent Office for the week ending Nov. 12, 1850.—Samuel S. Green of Lowell, Mass., improvement in horse shoe machinery; Allen B. Wilson of Pittsfield, Mass., improvements in sawing machines.

Mr. Henry M. Packard, of Blanchard, Me., was killed, Sunday, on Monday last, by the breaking of a cranial bone.—Upon the breaking of the bone, a piece of it struck the unfortunate man and literally severed his head from his body.

THE PHILADELPHIA MINT.—The following is a statement of the Gold coinage, at the Philadelphia Mint, from January 1st to October 31st, 1850. Gold coined to September 30, 1850, $17,013,872.50; Silver coined to $312,800; Gold coined to October 31, $2,669,653.00; Silver do., $34,600.00—Total, $20,032,327.50.

FIRE.—At Exeter, N. H., on Tuesday night, the Stone Mill, owned by Job Reynolds & Son, was set on fire by a person unknown. The building contained about 1500 spindles, was destroyed by fire. The concern cost from sixteen to twenty thousand dollars, three years since, and was insured at the American office, Providence, for $6000, and at the A.M.A., Hartford, for $3000.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.—The Atlas gives the returns for Governor from the whole State, with the exception of the towns of Chilmark and Hanson, by which it appears that Governor Briggs gave short of an absolute majority. Dan. Brown, 50,436; Mr. Boutwell, 35,891; Mr. Phillips, 27,734; scattering, 484. There is no hope for the Whigs. The House stands 171 for the Coalition, 168 Whigs, and no choice of 75.

The official vote of Boston is as follows: For Gov. Briggs, 5,969; Mr. Boutwell, 1,907; Mr. Phillips, 1,076; scattering, 14.

At Newton, on Monday, the Hon. Horace Delano, was entirely consumed by fire, with its contents, on Tuesday last. Loss about $300; no insurance.

A barn in Roxbury, belonging to Ass. C. P. M. The official returns are nearly all in and show a majority for Hunt of about 325. There is now no doubt of his election.

The State ticket is all democratic, with the exception of Hunt for governor.

ELECTION OF HUNT.—New York, 1 o'clock, P. M. The official returns are nearly all in and show a majority for Hunt of about 325. There is now no doubt of his election.

The State ticket is all democratic, with the exception of Hunt for governor.

FATAL.—Mr. Currie Barnard, who was residing in the Fitchburg Railroad last Saturday, died at his residence in Charlestown. He was a native of Bridgewater, N. H., and leaves a widow and four children.

BOSTON COMMON looks sweetly these fair days. The little lake had the fountain open yesterday, and the water rose much higher than the sills of the State House, in a stream of about eight inches in diameter. It fell in drops, made handsome waves throughout the surface.

THE ART OF COOKING is well set forth in a small volume edited by Mrs. Punnett, who seems to have had considerable experience in the business. We advise all friends to call at Ticknor & Co.'s corner of Washington and School streets, and inquire for the book.

DELAWARE ELECTION.—The democrats have carried this State by a small majority.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION.—The Atlas gives the returns for Governor from the whole State, with the exception of the towns of Chilmark and Hanson, by which it appears that Governor Briggs gave short of an absolute majority. Dan. Brown, 50,436; Mr. Boutwell, 35,891; Mr. Phillips, 27,734; scattering, 484. There is no hope for the Whigs. The House stands 171 for the Coalition, 168 Whigs, and no choice of 75.

The official vote of Boston is as follows: For Gov. Briggs, 5,969; Mr. Boutwell, 1,907; Mr. Phillips, 1,076; scattering, 14.

NASHVILLE CONVENTION.—On the second day of this Convention (Wednesday) seven delegates were admitted from Georgia; nine from Mississippi; three from Florida, and two from South Carolina.

RESOLUTIONS FROM ALABAMA were admitted of the most ultra character, denouncing the compromise, and declaring the right of Southern independence, also demanding Southern Convention to take measures for secession, etc. Resolutions also likewise submitted from Florida. They were all referred to a committee. About 60 delegates present.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were tempered by its size, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

A formal address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

There is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Affairs are now about making their report. A warm discussion is expected this afternoon.

A Mother with six bare-footed Children.—A mother with six bare-footed children, admitted attention this afternoon in Statehouse, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard, mostly without reference to his notes, and occupying an hour and a quarter in the delivery.

No meager report could do justice to its beauty and the personal appeal to the audience, and the entire world was astounded by her moral insight, which characterized it by her eloquent and forcible oratory, equal to that of Mr. Hilliard,

MASSACHUSETTS PLOUGHMAN.

William Buckminster, Editor.

SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 16, 1850.

"We have returned to our old office in Quincy Hall, where subscribers and friends will please ready to attend to them as usual. Our neighbors also, Ruggles, Nourse, Mason & Co., have moved back to the Rotunda."

CATTLE FAIR AT FRAMINGHAM.

The Committee of Arrangements, chosen on Friday, last week, have procured of Col. Wm. Hastings the use of a field near his dwelling house, where all who may bring their cattle for sale or exchange, free of expense, and an auctioneer also will be provided for them, if they choose to sell at auction.

The day of the Fair is Tuesday next, Nov. 19th.

For three days the flats on the Common have been thronged with visitors, and Mr. Wright's enormous tent has attracted a multitude of the admiring eyes of the feathered tribe.

The visitors were of both sexes, and of all ages, from one to eighty years, and the birds were from all nations under the sun.

Gees, Turkeys, Eagles and Pheasants were to be seen in various places under the tent, and as to what is called poultry, there were very numerous varieties, from the largest of the Chinese Siamese to the little Banian that struts and croaks when his bill is but a finger's length from the turf he stands on.

There were thousands of birds to be seen in husbandry cages, all seeming as happy as corn and water could make them, and all seemed desirous of being noticed by the visitors, and such a crowing is not often heard in Boston even among crazy pigeons.

The Committee of Arrangements spared no expense in making provision for a broad shelter, and for convenient avenues to the long ranges of cages.

Several thousands of boards were laid down on the damp ground to add comfort to the visitors, and no admission fee was demanded of the ladies.

The small sum of ninepence collected of male visitors proved sufficient to pay the principal part of the expense.

THE ELECTION.

"No one knows who will be Governor till after election." This is an old saw but is as true now as most of the aphorisms of modern days.

A great many votes have been thrown, and a vast many more have shown that they acted with out indifference from any high powers who had no legal right to control them. A secret ballot will not be seriously called for at a future election, for multitudes are not afraid to own their votes—those persons doing business in the market, it is supposed a further sum of $50,000 will be taken there, making $200,000 subscribed in that building alone. [Journal.]

ANOTHER BANK.—It is stated that a charter will be applied for at the next session of the Legislature for a bank to be styled the Faneuil Hall Bank. Some of the wealthiest provision dealers in Faneuil Hall Market have started the project, with a view of having the bank located over the market, or in the immediate vicinity. The capital is placed at $250,000, and while the sum of $150,000 will be required to be subscribed by persons doing business in the market, it is supposed a further sum of $50,000 will be taken there, making $200,000 subscribed in that building alone. [Journal.]

CHEAP POSTAGE. It is thought that the Postmaster General will recommend a material reduction of the rates of postage. The people have asked for it long enough; and we see no reason why they should not have it, inasmuch as it is they, who will "foot the bills," in case the new system should not pay its way.

WASHINGTON, NOV. 11. The Republic today contains the official proclamation of a reciprocal treaty with the Hawaiian government, the ratification having been mutually exchanged between the two countries in the office of the Secretary of State.

Hugh Wardell, of North Carolina, has been tendered and accepted the Havana consulsiphip, vice Cappell resigns.

The present governor is not chosen by the people, and their appear to be but three members of Congress chosen—that is, a whig in Suffolk, and in the eighth and ninth districts where Mr. Mann and Mr. Powers are chosen by the aid of Free Soilers and Democrats.

Whigs are elected for Senators in Suffolk, Hampshire, Barnstable, and in Nantucket and Dukes. But in Middlesex, Worcester, Norfolk, Plymouth, and Franklin the coalition parties have elected Senators, and probably in Essex also. Berkshire is close, and there is no choice in Hampden.

As to members of Congress there must be a plurality law passed in Massachusetts or we shall go unrepresented in that body.

BALTIMORE, NOV. 14th. The Maryland Reform Convention spent the whole day in electing clerks and secretaries, and completing the organization. They are all whigs but one.

BALTIMORE. The exhibition of fowls this week has been very successful. The security tells us that more than twelve thousand fowls were shown in the tent.

Thousands of visitors were there and the receipts will exceed six thousand dollars. The variety, the number and the quality of the poultry far surpasses any previous show in this country.

LARGE ROBBERY.—Louisa Hawkins, a mulatto girl, 14 years old, in the employ of Robert Eli, toll collector at the New Hope Delaware Bridge at Lambertville, N. J., decamped on Tuesday of last week with $3,376 in ten dollar notes, and $22 in specie, with several trinkets, wearing apparel, &c.

CINCINNATI, NOV. 11th. No sales of hogs. Three houses are packing on drivers account, and when from block at $3.50. Lord demands, except supply—$2000000 less No. 1 sold at $3.4.

THE PLANET VENUS.—The planet Venus may now be seen, in a clear afternoon, with the naked eye. It is distinctly visible as early as 2 o'clock, and increases in brilliancy till sunset. The crescent form of Venus is now plainly shown by the smallest telescope.

PATENTS ISSUED. From the Patent Office for the week ending Nov. 12, 1850. Samuel S. Greene of Lowell, Mass., improvement in horse shoe machinery; A. B. Wilson of Pittsfield, Mass., improvements in sawing machines.

MARY HENRY M. PACKARD. Of Blanchard, Me., was killed instantly, on Monday last, by the breaking of a circular saw.—Upon the breaking of the saw, a piece of it struck the unfortunate man and literally severed his head from his body.

THE PHILADELPHIA MINT.—The following is a statement of the Gold coinage, at the Philadelphia Mint, from January 1st to October 31st, 1850. Gold coinage to September 30, 1850, $17,013,872.50; Silver coinage to October 31, $2,669,055.00; Gold coinage to November 1, $34,600.00—Total, $20,632,327.50.

DELAWARE ELECTION. The democrats have carried this State by a small majority.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION. The Atlas gives the returns for Governor from the whole State, with the exception of the towns of Chalkirk and Hanson, by which it appears that Governor Briggs falls short of an election some 60000 votes. Gov. Briggs has 56,826, Mr. Boutwell 35,894; Mr. Phillips, 27,731; scattering, 484. There is no hope for the Whigs. The House stands 171 for the Coalition, 168 Whigs, and no choice of 72.

The official vote of Boston is as follows: For Gov. Briggs, 5,969; Mr. Boutwell, 1,907; Mr. Phillips, 1,076; scattering, 14.

NEW YORK ELECTION. The contest has been very close in the populous State of New York. By the last advice, Washington Hunt, the Whig candidate for Governor, is reported as elected by only three hundred and thirty-four majority. Both branches of the legislature are Whig.

THE WEATHER. The weather for a number of days has been charming, and quite warm enough for the season. It is cheering to have so many days in succession without rain. Look out and secure the tumpins before the ground freezes, for the middle of November has come.

BOSTON COMMON. Common looks sweetly these fair days. The little lake has the fountain open yesterday, and the water rose much higher than the sills of the State House, in a stream of about eight inches in diameter. Its fall drops, made handsome waves throughout the surface.

THE PHILADELPHIA MINT.—The following is a statement of the Gold coinage, at the Philadelphia Mint, from January 1st to October 31st, 1850. Gold coinage to September 30, 1850, $17,013,872.50; Silver coinage to October 31, $2,669,055.00; Gold coinage to November 1, $34,600.00—Total, $20,632,327.50.

ACCIDENT. At Exeter, N. H., on Tuesday night, the art of cooking is well set forth in a small volume edited by Mrs. Putnam, who seems to have had considerable experience in the kitchen. We advise all friends to call at Ticknor & Co.'s corner of Washington and School streets, and inquire for the book.

MASSACHUSETTS ELECTION. The Atlas gives the returns for Governor from the whole State, with the exception of the towns of Chalkirk and Hanson, by which it appears that Governor Briggs falls short of an election some 60000 votes. Gov. Briggs has 56,826, Mr. Boutwell 35,894; Mr. Phillips, 27,731; scattering, 484. There is no hope for the Whigs. The House stands 171 for the Coalition, 168 Whigs, and no choice of 72.

The official vote of Boston is as follows: For Gov. Briggs, 5,969; Mr. Boutwell, 1,907; Mr. Phillips, 1,076; scattering, 14.

NASHVILLE CONVENTION. On the second day of this Convention (Wednesday) seven delegates were admitted from Georgia; nine from Mississippi; three from Florida, and two from South Carolina.

Resolutions from Alabama were admitted of the most ultra character, denouncing the compromise, and declaring the right of secession inalienable; also recommending a Southern convention to take measures for redress, etc. Resolutions were likewise submitted from Florida. They were all referred to a committee. About 60 delegates present.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

A second address will be issued, which, it is said, cannot fail to obtain the approbation of all rational men, both at the North and the South.

The is not the least prospect of the Union being dissolved. The Committee on the Alabama Address are now asking that their report be voted upon.

The Convention does not cause any excitement, and the proceedings were temperate by good feeling.

THE POET'S CORNER.

BEAUTY OF LIBERTY.

"To all things that have beauty, there is nothing to man more easily than liberty."—Socrates.
When the dance of the shadows
At daybreak is done,
And the cheeked matinning
Are all in their own,
What he seeks in his glory
At eve from the view,
And calls up the planet,
The blaze in the blue;
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see,
More proud thus the sight of a man when free?

The present number of postmistresses in the United States is eighty-one.

"But Mr. Brown, that wasn't the man."

Brown suspended operations, and stood transfixed in horror. The remains of the injured individual was taken into the house. Then came remorse and apologies, unaccepted and unacceptable—a lawyer's letter; threats of an action for assault and battery, and a heavy payment by way of compromise, far more expensive than any fine or damages. The real offender had escaped and was never heard of; the victim was the well behaved young gentleman who sat on Mrs. Brown's right. Her description, which had answered for both, occasioned the dilemma, which, we hope, has had a salutary effect on Mr. Brown's temper, though it caused him to divide some of his best acres into town lots, and to part with his savings.

Brown was decidedly "done Brown."

GIVE WISELY!—AN ANECDOTE.

One evening, a short time since, the curate of B., a small village in the south of France, returned most fatigued to his humble dwelling. He had been visiting a poor family who were suffering from both want and sickness; and the worthy old man, besides attending to his patients, had been a rigid student of his scanty income. He walked home-worn, leaning on his stick, and thinking with sorrow, how very small were the means he possessed of doing good and relieving misery.

As he entered the door, he heard an unwonted clamor of tongues, taking the form of a boy no means harmonious—duet—an unknown male voice joined in with a shrill soprano. The boy had evidently overreached by a remarkably high and thin treble, easily recognized by the plaintive tone of his voice.

"When the voice of the tempest
At midnight is still,
And the spirit of solitude
Sobs on the hill."

There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see,
Like the brook leaping brawly down the hill?

In the depth of the darkness
I awoke in lone,
When the shadows were veiling
The breast of the blue;

When the voice of the tempest
At midnight is still,
And the spirit of solitude
Sobs on the hill."

There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see,
More proud thus the sight of a man when free?

In the breath of the morrow,
When nature's awake,
And calls up the planet,
The blaze in the blue;

When the voice of the tempest
At midnight is still,
And the spirit of solitude
Sobs on the hill."

There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see,
More proud thus the sight of a man when free?

LADIES' DEPARTMENT.

WHY MR. BROWN SOLD TOWN LOTS.

Mrs. Brown has been a very fine looking woman now—but Mrs. Brown has been married since.

He is a gentleman farmer, and lives a few miles from town, near the termination of an omnibus route; as the real estate agents say in their advertisements, "handsomely situated, and convenient to the city."

On returning from the dry goods business he had purchased a few weeks ago, he described himself as a man of moderate means could buy a few acres in a comfortable reduction below town line. He raised, raised vegetables, (and the young Browns) on the strictest principles of scientific agriculture and natural philosophy, and with the success usually attending the experiments of gentlemen amateurs in these branches; that is, his parents cast him four bits, a peak, and his apprentices about a dime apiece, while the young Browns run to seek shelter in houses. We could tell some to suit them and they were to the point. Brown was an innocent as a lamb (or perhaps a bear) but he was by no means so pacific; on the contrary, his temper was as full of malice as gun cotton; the slightest spark would set it in a blaze.

But to return to Mrs. Brown, whom we have most ungraciously left in the lurch since the first paragraph. She had been in town for a day, shopping and returned home in the omnibus between two young men; knights of the same afternoon's excursion.

The one on her right was modest and well behaved, while the other was entirely the reverse. He ought to be a knight—indeed, a good anti-slavery sanguine.

He might have been partially unsafe—these are chivalrous suppositions—at all events he had the impudence to address Mrs. Brown, in a low tone, audible only to herself. He muttered some compliments to her personal appearance—talked a little nonsense, impudent in itself, but intolerable as coming from a stranger. Mrs. Brown was disengaged and said to him, "Sir, I am the master of my own house."

"Who is the master?" he yelled, jumping up to meet the barrowful of gravel in his haste.

"A young man who sat next to me in the omnibus," said the master.

"Describe him!"

"Dark hair and eyes, white waistcoat, dark colored coat, sad light pantaloons."

"What way did go?" interrupted the master.

"Mrs. Brown, will be calm," was the dignified reply. "Calm as the surface of Makewell, when the river can't help it, to sweep along a moment. Have an eye to the whirlpool while having a settlement with the wounded."

Mr. Brown had said it—Mr. Brown meant it.

Mr. Brown walked firmly up the road. He entered the bar room of the —— House, and looked around him. His first glance lighted on a young man who answered the description given by Mrs. Brown, but he wanted to make assurance doubly sure, and so he accused him publicly.

"Fine growing weather, sir!"

"Yes, sir," replied the stranger.

"Corl is comung on very finely, sir!" said Mr. Brown.

"Indeed!"

"Considerable cholera in town?"

"Yes, but abating, I believe."

"Pray, sir," continued Brown, "did you come out in this stage?"

"I did."

"Was there a lady in the omnibus?"

"There was, sir. I recollect a lady sat next to me."

"You scoundrel! What did you mean by insulting my wife?"

This question was followed by a blow which sent the young gentleman sprawling on the floor, and the master up and knocked him down again—Brown stood him up the second time and knocked him down, like a man practicing on a single pin in a ten pin alley. The sufferer showed some fight, but Brown's blood was up, and he pummeled down all opposition. At last he dragged the offender out of the house, and finished him off on the road side. He was engaged in this, when Mrs. Brown, the wife of Mrs. Brown, tired of mounting guard over the wheel barrel, appeared upon the field.

"Mr. Brown," screamed the lady.

"Wait a minute, my dear, I've only done one side of his head."

"But, Mr. Brown, that wasn't the man."

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of Celia, the flippancy of Lucreta, the passion of Juliet, the spirituality of Nerissa, the innocence of Cordelia, the intellect of Portia, the wiles of Cleopatra, the innocence of Miranda, the charms of Viola, the gentleness of Desdemona,

the sanctity and moral purity of Isabella, the anguish of Conscience, the maternity of Volumna, the shrewishness of Katharine, the affection of C